Going Over. The Dealer and each player start with two cards; the dealer's first card is face down, the second face up. The game ends when a player has a hand value of 21 or more, or the dealer has a hand value of 21 or more. The player who has the highest hand value wins. If both the player and the dealer have the same hand value, the hand is a push. The dealer's hand value is determined by the sum of the values of the cards in the hand. The dealer's hand value is 21 if the hand contains an Ace and a 10 or a face card. The dealer's hand value is 10 if the hand contains an Ace and a card with a value of 10 or 11, and the player who holds the Ace gets to choose the value of the card. The dealer's hand value is 11 if the hand contains an Ace and a card with a value of 10 or 11, and the player who holds the Ace gets to choose the value of the card. The dealer's hand value is 12 if the hand contains an Ace and a card with a value of 10 or 11, and the player who holds the Ace gets to choose the value of the card. The dealer's hand value is 13 if the hand contains an Ace and a card with a value of 10 or 11, and the player who holds the Ace gets to choose the value of the card. The dealer's hand value is 14 if the hand contains an Ace and a card with a value of 10 or 11, and the player who holds the Ace gets to choose the value of the card. The dealer's hand value is 15 if the hand contains an Ace and a card with a value of 10 or 11, and the player who holds the Ace gets to choose the value of the card. The dealer's hand value is 16 if the hand contains an Ace and a card with a value of 10 or 11, and the player who holds the Ace gets to choose the value of the card. The dealer's hand value is 17 if the hand contains an Ace and a card with a value of 10 or 11, and the player who holds the Ace gets to choose the value of the card.
